FESTA DE INTERESE TVRÍSTICO GALEGO
FESTIVAL OF NATIONAL TOVRIST INTEREST

ENG

MÉNDEZ LÓPEZ

Mayor of Lvgo

In the next few days, the city will be travelling 2,000 years back in time. Once again, the lively comings and goings of the Romans and native inhabitants will fill the streets of the historic quarter and surrounding area of our beloved Lvcvs Avgvsti, ensuring that we never forget our origins.

Between 9th and 12th Jvne, the gates of the camps and settlements will once more be opening, offering us the chance to celebrate the legacy left to us by our ancestors, as well as the history, heritage and traditions that have forged our identity. We will be able to visit the Roman villas and vestal temples; attend marriage ceremonies following the Ancient Roman and Celtic traditions; thrill at the spectacle of the Roman circovs and the gladiators' fights;

celebrate the lighting of the sacred flame; cheer the processions as they make their way through the streets and attend the funeral ceremonies of our leaders.

We will dance, sing, visit the theatre and pay tribute to the magic of Lvgo as it was two thousand years ago, at an event that has finally recovered all its splendour following two years in which the pandemic forced us to keep the flame of Arde Lvcvs burning low. Yet that flame has now been fully rekindled and is burning as bright as ever, a clear indication of our strength, enthusiasm and capacity for reinvention and adaptation: together, we are truly invincible.

For our city, Arde Lvcvs is much more than a historical re-enactment; it is a reflection of our open and hospitable nature, welcoming everyone that chooses to visit us. It also demonstrates the pride we take in our past and the way we cherish our culture, proof of which can be found not just in the commitment of the 19 associations that work throughout the year to guarantee the historical accuracy of this celebration, but also the involvement of all the citizens of Lvgo. Groups from all areas, sports clubs, education centres, organisations, sponsors, residents of all ages, the staff at Lvgo City Council...thank you all for your special dedication to this festival, currently an event of Galician and Spanish tourism interest and whose status will soon be raised to that of international interest.

Over the last two years, we have worked tirelessly to consolidate our position as a model for the rest of the world. Newspapers, radio stations, magazines and television channels in France, Italy, China, Uruguay, Argentina, Brazil, Mexico, Bulgaria and Canada, among others, have all featured our festival, and the videos shown virtually during the pandemic were shared on the social media of more than half a million people, in particular in the UK, Portugal, USA, Germany, Romania and Latin American countries. At Fitur, we also received a new accolade as a tourism destination, the Tourism Women Friendly award, in recognition of the role women play in this event.

Indeed, we have many reasons to celebrate in 2022.

And we would like you to share our enjoyment and join us at this year's very special edition.

Discover and explore with us the history that identifies us as a place that has provided people with a home for more than two thousand years, as we warmly invite the world to join us at this latest edition. Indeed, the flame of Arde Lvcvs has never ceased to burn, providing a beacon indicating the path to follow.

TWO PEOPLES, ONE HISTORY

Ovr story began some years ago. I remember that on a day jst like this, all the men and women in the settlement were filled with dread, as news had spread of a vast army of men of iron marching towards vs. A terrible prophecy that came trve that very day. They were called Romans and laid waste to everything they encovntered in their path. As night fell, the troops reached the gates of ovr town. On one bank of the river, two legions commanded by Gaivs Antistivs Vetvs, the legate of Emperor Octavivs Avgvstvs himself, whilst we waited on the opposite bank, armed and ready to defend ovr land to the death.

The first thing they did was to send fovr priests. They spoke a language that was vnkown to vs, and for that reason we did not answer them, as we were vnable to vnderstand what they were saying. In time, we learnt that they were offering vs a choice between svrrender or an immediate declaration of war. My next memory is of them marching across the bridge. We tried to stop them, bvt all ovr attempts were in vain. They crvshed all resistance and contined on their way.

When the next day dawned we were met with the vnbearable sight of their impressive camps. Ovr leaders decide to hold an assembly, bringing together all the clans, something that only happened exceptionally, in times of dire need and desperation. Opinion among the grovps was divided: some called for peace, whilst others cried ovt for war. No agreement was reached vntil Chief Bandva spoke, fvelling the flames of war and vrging vs to rise vp in arms.

The next night, we commended ovrselfes to the god Lvgh, asking for his protection. We also held the initiation ceremony for the yovng boys in the art of war and advlthood after killing a boar and attending a hvman sacrifice. The ceremony was taking place in the normal manner, and we were all content vntil the vnthinkable happened. With no prior warning, the Romans profaned ovr ceremony, setting fire and destroying everything they covld find. Worst of all, they bvrrt the carving of ovr god Lvgh. For those of vs that managed to escape, it was a night of terror that filled vs with hate and loathing.

I can clearly remember the moment that we came vp with a plan to defeat the invading troops. That afternoon, while the rvins of ovr temple were still smovldering, the Romans came to ovr settlement, determined to destroy it. They thought they had overcome vs, bvt we were not yet defeated. The battle was fierce and atrocities were committed by both sides. They deployed their power, whilst we were driven by rage. Yet in the heat of battle, something historic occvrrd. The leader of the Roman legion, Pavlvvs Fabivvs Maximvs, called a halt to the strvggle to talk to ovr leaders. In the midst of the chaos and devastation he decided to negotiate a trvce, promising to respect the peace and ovr way of life.

To ensvre the continvity of this agreement, we decided to fovnd a city in these north-western lands that would be known as Lvcvs Avgvsti, in commemoration of ovr god Lvgh and the Roman emperor, Avgvstvs. A monolith was erected to commemorate the events that had taken place on the site.

It was a day that changed the covrse of history. Both cvltvres were mvtvally enriched and learnt from each other. Rome and the Gallaeci were more than a mere dream, as ovr memory is still alive today and can be sensed in the city's stones.
